WILEI SLAUGHTER HOUSE

WILL BE MOVED TO A SITE IN KALIHU.

Shut in and Crowded Out by Dredger Fillings on West Side of Harbor. What the Change Will Mean.

The slaughter house will be removed from Wilei to Kalihu as soon as possible. The change will be an inconvenience to the Metropolitan Meat Company but is about the best that can be done at present. When the shift is made cattle will be landed at the railway wharf and driven over the highway or taken by cars to Kalihu.

Yesterday afternoon the location in Wilei was condemned by the Board of Health. This was at the suggestion of the Metropolitan Meat Company. The reason of the condemnation was not the insanitary condition of the premises but the surroundings as they are and are becoming. Dredgings of the Oahu Railway Company for the new wharves at the western end of the harbor are being deposited in the low district back of the railway wharf. This is gradually shutting out the sea from that locality, and the wall or outside line is already approaching the point of Wilei.

Heretofore seepings from the slaughter house have been run into the shoal water and from there went to sea. With the shoal water closed by dredger fillings this will no longer be possible. Moreover it will be impossible to drive cattle to the slaughter house for the reason that the filled district will be a mass of soft mud for a long time.

Thus the slaughter house is being driven out by the wharf improvements. The cattle pen will have to be moved. Some arrangements will be made to land stock directly on the railway wharf for shipment by cars and on some other wharf to be driven to Kalihu.

Hog slaughtering in the Wilei district has also been condemned and will be stopped for the same reason. The pork men have not yet decided where they will go.

A LAND SUIT.

The Kapiolani estate has entered suit against Mary K. Atcherley and several others to recover two pieces of land, one near Punchbowl, and the other on Molokai, claimed by Princes David and Cupid.

NO HOGS IN NUUANU.

At the meeting of the Board of Health yesterday afternoon it was decided that no one be allowed to keep hogs in Nuuanu valley. The question arose on account of the application of Mr. Henriques who keeps something like a dozen head near Luakaha. The reason for forbidding stock raising in the locality is the contiguity of the surface water supply thereto.

THE WEATHER.

$8,000,000 CALLED FOR

PROBABLE PUBLIC EXPENSES OF TWO YEARS.

Amounts Appropriated and Provided to be Expended by the Council of State, Together With Fire Losses.

Since December 12, 1899, the Council of State has appropriated $1,927,753.24 for the expenses incurred in the suppression of bubonic plague, including $345,253.24 for the extension of the sewerage system.

It has appropriated $3,559,603 for the expenses of the Government under various heads, for the biennial period ending December 31, 1901. In addition, by virtue of the opinion of the Attorney General that certain appropriations made by the last legislature are continuing appropriations—a view adopted and acted upon by the Council of State, $2,309,456 for salaries and payrolls must be added to the funds provided for the use of the Government during the biennial period, and in addition a large, but not easily determinable amount, the continuing appropriations for work provided for by the last legislature, but not completed during the last biennial period.

That by the process of the Council of State and an opinion of the Attorney General, and without the intervention or action of a legislature, the Territory of Hawaii will be called on during the two years beginning about January 1, 1900, to raise by taxation the enormous sum of $8,001,813.18, plus the indefinite amount of continuing appropriations, and whatever shall be paid for the loss of property by sanitary fires, for which no provision has yet been made.

The last legislature, which was thought to be a generous one, appropriated for all purposes, including the sewerage system, the Pallo road and a number of other big and expensive public works, a total of $5,988,445.97. So that the Council of State has overtopped the last legislature by anywhere from one to two million dollars.

The items making up this grand total, far and away the largest amount the people of the Hawaiian Islands have ever been called on to contribute in any two years of their history, are as follows:

Appropriations for suppressing the plague, and maintaining relief camps.	$ 700,000.00
Appropriation for the extension of the sewerage system.	345,253.24
Appropriations for the departmental use of the Government during the biennial period, Act 2.	1,456,025.92
Appropriations for the use of the Government during the biennial period, Act 4.	1,571,791.20
Appropriations for salaries and payrolls during the biennial period, being simply increases and additions to the salaries and payrolls over the last biennial period, Act 3.	538,786.82
Appropriations for salaries and payrolls made by the last legislature, and continued under the opinion of the Attorney General during this biennial period.	2,309,456.00

Total called for from the people without the intervention of a legislature. $6,824,313.18

Add to the continuing appropriations for other purposes that salaries and payrolls, and the amounts that may be required for the payment of sanitary fire losses, and the grand total can scarcely be less than:—$8,000,000.00

CLUB STABLES BUILDING

The new brick building in front of the Club Stables on Fort Street will be only 62 by 60 feet in dimensions. This is 44 feet less frontage than was intended. Minister Young declined to allow the corner to occupy the whole district as it is supposed to very soon extend Paushi street over the lane.

The building will be occupied by stores. It will be two stories high and of brick.

COPTIC'S PASSENGERS.

Hackfeld & Co. are in receipt of a telegram stating that the Coptic, due tomorrow from Yokohama, is full of passengers, and that only four or five more can be taken here. The dispatch was sent from Japan to the San Francisco agents. This state of things will be a great disappointment to a large number of people here, as many expect to get away on the popular liner, Hackfeld & Co. will make every effort to get a number off with the best accommodations. Travel to the Paris Exposition is what has crowded the Coptic.

IMPORTANCE OF ONE DAY

VESSELS COMING FROM FOREIGN PORTS.

A Difference of a Day in Arriving Here Means Thousands of Dollars Difference in Tariff.

A large fleet of vessels is on the ocean en route to Hawaiian ports and, in view of the settlement of the territorial bill questions, whether many of them make quick or slow passages to here will make a difference of many thousands of dollars to the local consignees. It is all a matter of whether the vessels get here before or after the new laws go into effect. Assuming that the bill makes fairly rapid progress after leaving the conference committee at Washington, the new laws should be in effect by June 10. A coal ship arriving from Newcastle on June 9 would escape the American tariff, while a vessel arriving here with Newcastle coal the next day will have to pay sixty-seven cents a ton. This is a matter of about a thousand dollars on an average cargo, and two thousand dollars on a large ship's cargo. The same rules apply to vessels that are on the way from Europe with general cargoes. It behooves the consignees of these vessels to lose no time in getting here, as a day's delay may cost their consignees many thousands of dollars—unless the cargo consists of such highly assessed items as are in the United States.

With vessels from San Francisco and other American ports the position is reversed. Hawaiian tariff is being collected now, but after the date on which the laws go into effect there will be no tariff at all. At present the list of vessels on the way from San Francisco is quite small. All of them will almost certainly get here before the new tariff laws apply, and it will cost them a good sum in proportion to the value of their freights. From the present date it is likely that no more cargoes will be sent from American ports to reach here before the application of American laws to Hawaii is complete. This may mean a little lull in the freight business, though there are a good many sorts of freight that come in from Europe.

From Europe there are seven vessels on the way; at least three of which should arrive before the new tariff applies. The German bark Solide, 107 days out from Hamburg, and the British ships Harlech Castle and M. E. Watson, 110 days out, are expected to come out from Liverpool, are almost certain to enter under Hawaiian tariff. The German ship Hera, from Hamburg, is likely to show up just about the time of the change in the laws, though with a favorable passage she might get in ahead of the date of change. The bark Wallace B. Flint, from New York, might also get in ahead of the application of American laws, if she had very good luck in the passage, but it would be poor luck for it is owners of the vessel. She is 63 days out. The sailing dates of three other vessels from New York and of the rest of those coming from European ports, are not known here.

The Newcastle fleet on the way is the largest coming from any one place, as it has been for some months. Between fifty and sixty vessels are en route to Honolulu and other island ports from Newcastle, with coal that comes in free now, and will be subject to a duty of 67 cents a ton after the new laws go into effect. It will be a close race for some of them to get in time to save the duty. Seven of them have coal for the army, which is not subject to duty. The navy has no coal coming, having enough here, so that the rest of the vessels are for private parties.

The sailing dates of many of the Newcastle fleet are not known, but there are some which, making an average trip, will come in to the harbor about June 10, which is the date on which the change might occur. It might pay the consignees of some of these vessels to send steamers out to look for the vessels and bring them in if they can be sighted near port, to save the 67 cents a ton of the coal. The captain who arrives on the day after the new laws are applied, will not feel very cheerful over his record for the voyage.

There is no way to get news to the vessels about informing their masters of what they might make by coming quickly or slowly. It is simply a case of the winds and waves. Involved very large sums of money. The captains do not even know that it makes any unusual difference whether they get here on the first of June or the first of July, and they are simply sailing their ships in the regular way, and up the best records they can anyhow, as captains always do. It would pay some of them to reef sail and go slowly, and it is lucky for them if they are disappointed lying becalmed.

AUSTRIANS SEEMED SATISFIED.

If the Austrians who came here on the Doric were a lot of slaves that had been lured by deceit into bondage, and were anxious to regain their freedom, they did not show it at all during their stay in Honolulu. It appeared to all the customs and other officers with whom the immigrants conversed, through an interpreter, that they were in high spirits, and no complaint was made locally.

ANOTHER IRISH QUESTION

IS AN IRISH MOSS QUESTION THIS TIME.

Bitter Controversy Over Its Use as an Adulterant of Milk—Plain Talk From the Bench.

"I am not going to grant continuances to enable defendants to get up defenses; it isn't right. You said you were ready for trial when we started in on this case. The prosecution has put up its whole case. No, it isn't right to grant you a continuance to go off on a fishing excursion to see what evidence you can get, or make up a defense, for anything I know."

It was in these words and others of similar import that Judge Billman denied a motion for continuance in the case against C. Lando in the District court this morning. Lando is a driver for the Star Dairy, and is charged with selling adulterated milk. The prosecution had concluded its case, and the defendant had been put on the stand, when J. Alfred Magoon, who was defending, asked for a continuance to enable him to have a sample of the alleged adulterated milk analyzed by a chemist of his own selection. Deputy Marshal Chillingworth opposed the motion, because the defense had had since Monday to have such analysis made. Mr. Magoon replied that he was not aware until today that there was a sample of the milk in existence. He declared that the Star Dairy did not adulterate its milk, and he wanted it demonstrated to his own satisfaction that the sample of milk introduced in evidence was or was not adulterated, as Mr. Shorey, the chemist for the Board of Health said it was. Deputy Marshal Chillingworth objected to the denial of adulteration made in the way they were. Mr. Magoon, he said, was a director in the dairy company, and was defending the case. If he wanted to deny the adulteration he should take the witness stand and say it under oath, and not try to get it before the court as the statement of the attorney in the case made by a director.

Judge Wilcox, however, cut short by denying the motion in the terms quoted. Mr. Magoon was then in an adjournment of the case until tomorrow morning on the ground that the defendant was the only man in the employ of the company who knew his route. He had to begin his afternoon delivery at 1 o'clock, and if he were required to be in court, he would have to leave his route, and his customers would be injured. An irreparable injury would be inflicted on the company, and the sufferers would be the widows and orphans who owned the stock of the company, and the people who would not get their supply of milk. Judge Wilcox, however, going into the case, he said, he would not finally put the case over until tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock, on the ground that otherwise innocent people would suffer in not getting their milk.

The evidence for the prosecution was that the defendant sold milk to a Chinese restaurant at the corner of Queen and Alaie streets Monday morning. Inspector H. Myhre of the Board of Health took a sample of the milk at that time, and Mr. Shorey, on analysis, found it contained 15 per cent of water, and some Irish moss used to thicken it. Mr. Shorey had with him samples of Irish moss, which is a seaweed of gelatinous quality, readily soluble in fresh water, yielding a viscous result.

Lando, in his own defense, said he had not adulterated the milk, nor had anyone else to his knowledge, and he had never heard of Irish moss being used as an adulterant until this case came up.

PUBLIC WATER TROUGHS

WARNING TO HORSEMEN ABOUT THEM.

Great Danger of Glanders in Them—The Situation at Olua—Disease Germs Found in Specimens.

Local veterinarians are satisfied that glanders has appeared at Olua plantation. It seems that Dr. Elliot, for four years veterinary there, so declared. The disease is a constant and hard to keep out. A Government veterinary held a different view, however, and was given the floor by the plantation people.

Specimens from stock were sent down to the plantation people to Alexander & Baldwin. These show conclusively the presence of glanders. It is supposed that the disease is the legacy of the few horse transports that stopped at Hilo.

Local veterinarians are confident of keeping glanders out of Honolulu, though it is a constant and hard to keep out. Inspection of stock passing between the islands, which has been decided upon, is regarded as an important step in the right direction. This will be constant, and thorough local inspection will, it is believed, do the work.

It has been pointed out that the greatest danger to horses is using the public watering troughs around town. There are several of these in general use. A horse with glanders drinking out of these would communicate the disease to every animal coming after for days. This comes from an authority and is thrown out as a warning to horsemen. It is believed that if there is a spread of glanders here it will come from public watering troughs.

NO SALE OF KAMALO STOCK

COURT ORDERS A TEMPORARY INJUNCTION.

Suit Not to be Sold Until the Original Suit is Determined—Bond Fixed at $15,000.

Judge Billman has enjoined the directors of the Kamalo plantation not to sell its delinquent shares at auction as was proposed at one time, until a case now before the court, having reference to the same matter, is determined.

The delinquent shareholders in this case, who are petitioners for injunction, are required by the court to file an indemnity bond in the sum of $15,000.

The case came up for hearing this morning. George A. Davis represented the petitioners, and A. G. M. Robertson appeared for the directors. Both argued the case before the court, the former dwelling particularly upon the fact that the directors were proceeding to sell shares directly affected by the suit now pending. Mr. Robertson contended that the directors, in dealing with the particular stock were not proceeding outside of legal bounds.

The court decided that a temporary injunction be issued, to have effect until the pending suit is settled.

Mr. Robertson requested that plaintiffs be required to file an indemnity bond in the sum of $30,000.

Mr. Davis argued contra, saying among other things that the stock held by his clients was not worth so much money.

The court announced that the bond would be $15,000.

The original bill asked for an accounting, and that the sum of $35,000, alleged to have been paid in, be accounted for in the assets of the company.

FEVER ON THE DECREASE

AN IMPROVEMENT IN HEALTH SITUATION.

For Certain Reasons There Has Been a Sudden Decline in Fever List—What Officials Think About It.

The decrease of sickness in Honolulu in the past few weeks has been one of the remarkable things in Board of Health circles. It is a fact that fever, which at one time was so general and serious, seems to be playing out. Health officials point to the fact with satisfaction. With the plague this ailment seems also to have been conquered, at least in a large measure.

Three causes are given for the decrease in the number of fever patients. First, comes the cleansing the town has had. Next, the burning of Chinatown, which was a hotbed for malaria and almost everything of the kind. Finally, they say that the work of the inspectors in keeping private premises constantly in order has much to do with it.

"Fever is rapidly decreasing," said an official this morning. "So pronounced is the improvement that the doctors are all talking about it. Only a short time ago each doctor had several fever cases. Now, many of them have none at all. I ascribe as the principal reason for the decrease the town had during the plague period, and the good work the inspectors are now doing in enforcing sanitary measures in the less healthy localities. The rain, of course, had something to do with it, but I think sanitary methods proved the strongest weapon."

The death rate for April has not thus far shown any great improvement. It is noted, however, that a large number were old cases of illness. The pneumonia list will be the lightest in many months. Consumption will appear at the top of the list. In fact, it will probably show no improvement until the incurable hospital is in good working order.

What to do about the inspectors is the most important question before the Board of Health. It is thought that if they are really doing the work claimed for them they are a cheap investment.

ALL HER TROUBLES CEASE.

DEATH OF PAUELUA YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Old Woman of Liliha Street Who Was Both Rich and Poor—Supposed to be Nearly 115 Years Old.

Old Pauehua, the woman who had aroused so much interest on account of her general condition, there being a dispute about it, settled all troubles yesterday by dying.

This character was from Puna, Hawaii, and was living with relative in Kuuahua, off Liliha street near Judd. She was worth considerable in property and had lands in Puna, adjoining the proposed new sugar plantation in that district. Being caught by the quarantine she was obliged to remain in Honolulu.

When the inspectors began work one of them reported the old woman as in destitute circumstances and tried to get her into Lunallilo home. Mrs. George Beckley investigated the case, however, and found that she was not destitute and on the contrary, had recently sold property for $2,500. Subsequently investigations seemed to show that the old woman never received this money, and, moreover, was being ill used. Complaint had been made to the Marshal and plans were making for serious charges against certain of her relatives, when she died.

Dr. Howard signs the death certificate. He gives chronic nephritis as the trouble. The old woman will be buried in the cemetery at Kalahehoku this afternoon.

Pauehua's age is given as 100. This is approximate only. Historical facts indicate that she was nearer 115. She was undoubtedly one of the oldest, if not the very oldest person in the country.

HOLDS THE RECORD.

A Horse Which Proved Expert in Running Away.

One of the liveliest runaways on record disturbed the Pacific Mail wharf this morning. A horse attached to a small two-wheeled cart became frightened on Fort street and made for the water front. Before he was stopped he had succeeded in entering the Pacific Mail wharf shed, getting out again, running along the new navy wharf and making a flying leap to terra firma from there over the bit of unfinished wharf at the end.

The horse came into the wharf at full run, just missing the sides of the gate. He struck a peanut wagon with one wheel of the cart and then bumped into a pile of soy tubs, knocking one of them down and turning the cart over. He kept on just the same, however, a crowd of natives running after and expecting to see him run over the end of the wharf into the water. But this steed was not a runaway with his eyes shut, as most runaways are said to be. He wheeled round so quickly when he saw the edge of the wharf that he righted the cart and then he started for shore along the new wharf. The wharf is not finished yet, and the crowd whose shouts were hurrying the horse on expected to see both horse and buggy disappear when they reached the open space. But when the horse saw a space where the boards had not been laid, the width of three boards, he made a flying leap and lit on the earth. The cart landed just behind him and he started on again and was lost to view on Alaie street. He had turned several hard corners and in the flight down the wharf he missed a long succession of piles of lumber.

PROVIDE AGAINST WANT.

Life insurance is the only way that a man of moderate means can secure his family against want through investment of the slender sum he can set aside for that purpose. Many a man cannot save a thousand dollars; but he can pay a premium on a thousand dollar policy. Every husband and father should have his life insured in a strong company like the Provident Savings Life Assurance Company of New York. I. R.
